

Kornar Winmil Yunti

The primary aim of KWY is to ensure the safety and well-being of families and communities. We offer but not limited to the following:

- Work with Aboriginal men who are marginalised and need direct assistance to engage with the health system, their community and families
- Optimise opportunities to intervene through direct health services that focus on positive changes for Aboriginal women, children and men
- Through direct counselling provide guidance in supporting Aboriginal women, children and men
- Establish collaborative and consultative links with Aboriginal organisations concerned with addressing the social determinants of health
- Promote, educate and disseminate knowledge about living non-violently in our community and the benefits of respectful relationships
- Provide cultural training across government and non government sectors
- Provide cultural consultancy to corporate, government and non government agencies
- Provide mentoring and support to Aboriginal staff in the workforce
