

Nanko-walun Porlar Nomawi

Wellbeing for Children & Families

“There’s no shame here. It’s about finding new ways to trust, new ways of working together”

Contact

CAMHS

78 Swanport Rd, Murray
Bridge

Ph: 8531 3901

Nanko-walun Porlar Nomawi is a free service in the Murraylands region of South Australia. It is a part of the Strengthening Families Program funded under the COAG initiative. It is specifically for Aboriginal children, young people and their families.

Nanko-walun Porlar Nomawi aims to...

- Get kids engaged in school
- Support families involved with the child protection system
- Focus on social and emotional wellbeing
- Encourage Aboriginal families to seek help when they need it
- Strengthen family’s connection to community

Nanko-walun Porlar Nomawi offers these services to children, young people and families...

- Individual support, mentoring and counselling
- Cultural connection/identity support groups
- Family support and counselling
- Programs for young Aboriginal mums
- Client transport
- Working with other agencies

Government of South Australia

SA Health